

PANAGIOTIS MICHALOPOULOS

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Assistant Professor at the Department of Theater Studies of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens and member of the Collaborating Educational Staff (CED) at the Hellenic Open University. He has taught in the undergraduate and postgraduate programs of the Department of Theater Studies of the University of Peloponnese and in private drama schools, and has also worked as a researcher at the Academy of Athens. As a theatre researcher, he has collaborated with many Athens-based theatre companies and Municipal and Regional theatres, and has designed and edited the publication of more than sixty plays of the Greek and world dramaturgy, as well as theater programs, albums, studies and edited volumes. He studied theatre studies at the University of Athens, where he continued his postgraduate studies and was awarded a doctorate with honors. His research and teaching work focuses on the history of the modern Greek theater, the history of directing, the relations between theater and politics and the effects of historical events on stage performance. He has participated with presentations in scientific conferences, seminars and bi-seminars and has published his studies in scientific journals, edited volumes and conference proceedings.
